

Crop circles forecast sunspot activity at the eclipse on July 7th, changing the working of our brains

Crop circles have been occurring around the world for a long time, especially in Britain, and these have been very well tracked and documented by www.cropcircleconnector.com. In recent weeks, there has been a series of glyphs pointing to the occurrence of a substantial solar flare in association with the lunar eclipse on July 7th. Most of these patterns have been very skilfully analysed by those with the knowledge to do so – and, to me, some of this analysis is simply breathtaking in its detail and understanding. Thank you to all involved in this extraordinary work.

Here are links to a series of these analyses:

Even looking at the patterns without the analyses, does anyone want to argue these beautiful gifts to humanity are man-made? What we have is a huge body of crop circle evidence pointing to a major solar flare on July 7th.

So, is this supported by any forecasts from the scientific community? As I write this, it is July 3rd, 4 days from the forecast event.

Here is a recent posting from NASA

http://science.nasa.gov/headlines/y2009/29may_noaaprediction.htm about this current cycle – no reference to this event. Here’s another recent discussion about Cycle 24 - <http://www.radio-sport.net/sunspots2009-1.htm>. It seems everyone thinks we’re in for a quiet cycle... No talk of July 7th. Here is the forecast from NOAA - <http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/forecast.html>, which, admittedly is only for 3 days – nothing. Nor at <http://www.spaceweather.com/> or at <http://www.solarmonitor.org/forecast.php?date=20090703> . It appears none of the mainstream forecasters are doing the kind of work we see at <http://www.cropcircleconnector.com/2009/southfield/articles.html> and they clearly don’t monitor crop circles!!

So even though there was evidence on June 4th pointing to a potential event 33 days later when the spot comes around again, no-one seems to be alert to it.

STOP PRESS: As I am finalising this on July 4th, SpaceWeather.com has posted this today: NEW SUNSPOT: Sunspot 1024 is growing rapidly and crackling with B-class solar flares.

I had been watching the emergence of these patterns even before Carolyn Evers received the message on the phoenix patterns that I have shared with those registered for updates at www.the2012countdown.com. In Earth History - Past, Present and Future, an eBook given to Carolyn by Archangel Michael in 2006 - <http://tinyurl.com/mlorww> - on p21 he says the following:

“The energies did not come all at once, but rather in segments, because humans in their physical frame could not have endured such potent sources of change. These energies have come to the planet in surges that you recognise as solar flares. So there is one type of energy that comes through solar flares and there are other types of energy that come through eclipses and planets which configure themselves in patterns that those who study astrology would recognise.”

These words provide a great context for the unfolding we see at http://www.the2012countdown.com/The_2012_Time_Line.php.

So here we have an event which looks to be bringing both scenarios together – and in the light of this phoenix image <http://www.cropcircleconnector.com/2009/yatesbury2/yatesbury2009b.html>, which shows flames around the tail of the phoenix, is the flame that consumes the phoenix a solar flare?

So with this background, I was interested to see what messages, if any, our spiritual friends had for us in relation to this date. Were they saying there would be solar flares and if so, what impact would they have?

And today (July 3rd Aussie time) Carolyn asked them....

And yes, they are saying there will be sunspot activity on that date.

Mother Mary:

"There will be a blast of energy from the sun"

"..there is a blending of energies that have not come here to Earth in a very long time..."

"... immediate influence of the 7th will be changing something internally in the human body and that is a relationship in the ganglia in the brain.... the sequence in which messages move in the brain... perfect the method in which the synapses work... became skewed when the brain was divided in Atlantis..."

“also make changes in the animal brain... they will have more of an awareness... be able to communicate more directly with those they call pets... we believe it will be noticeable...”

And this from Lord Metatron:

“Another step forward in the human race having more direct consciousness/awareness of their Creator..... for those on a spiritual path, these changes in the brain will bring forth a great advancement in the awareness of the relationship between human beings and their God.”

“It is a marker. A very important marker.”

“What you see in the crop circles is showing energy as it moves and there are many recent crop circles showing how the energy is coming through, how it moves, but what we are giving you is the spiritual aspect of it.”

Recently I wrote a piece entitled “Where’s the evidence for a 2012 event?” (Click on <http://tinyurl.com/n36e4c> to download it). In it I express what I see as the importance of tangible, irrefutable evidence that “Joe Average” cannot ignore as to what is unfolding at the end of 2012. Does this prediction, based on the crop circles and now Carolyn’s message, in the absence of any scientifically forecast event constitute such evidence?

In my view, it is a powerful step forward, because we have a prediction and we will have an event that is visible in the world, so it gives credibility to these sources. However, it is not something that is likely to gain the attention of humanity in general, although it is something you and I will be able to refer back to and I encourage you to share it widely.

From a lightworker perspective, however, this is very important. We have seen so many messages about events coming that never seem to arrive – the decloaking of lightships on October 14, 2008, the US stockmarket closing when the DOW fell below 7,200, NESARA, first contact...

In the article “Is there any truth to NESARA?”, (<http://www.metatronminutes.com/articles.html>) by Lord Metatron, he says, “Truth will manifest itself. Truth will not come close to manifestation and then turn away, come close to manifestation and turn away, come close so that it is almost within your grasp and then like a wispy cloud it is not in your grasp at all. And when you have a set of circumstances that operates in that manner you can be pretty sure that this is the dark."

Few have understood how deeply our dark friends have compromised the majority of well intentioned lightworkers, who believed they were bringing forth messages of the light. Lord Metatron discusses this in the article entitled "How does the dark interfere with the well intentioned"

(<http://www.metatronminutes.com/articles.html>).

And so it is an important marker in this sense - we have an event forecast by those of the light which, in short order, will be visible for the world to see.

This is a marker for lightworkers. And in a sense it is a good thing that this is not an event that "Joe Public" will experience as a wake-up call, since the lightworkers of the world are not ready to support them.

Few are aware that the reign of the dark across the cosmos has ended, as this much longer cycle is ending at 2012 also. It began in March, 2009 when Bealzebub, the leader of the fallen cherubim, those ultimately responsible for creating the forces of darkness, returned to the light.

Recently the cycle of the dark was declared complete and all of the remaining dark ones have a clear choice – choose to return to the light or have their souls deconstructed, losing all memory and be reconstructed as beings of light to begin a new journey. This process has begun and the damage caused by the dark across the cosmos has been healed.

And now it is time to break the grip of the dark on those present on this beautiful planet called Earth, and it begins with the lightworkers so they may complete their missions in preparing humanity and planet Earth for Ascension. And the same law applies – the dark ones either return to the light or their souls will be deconstructed. Their reign of terror, manipulation and destruction is at an end – and only love awaits them either way.

So note this foretelling by Mother Mary and Lord Metatron and observe the unfolding of this truth come July 7th. It is a truly wondrous moment.

And remember we have two more eclipses to come in the next 30 days...
