

April 2010 full moon messages from Jeshua and Mary Magdalene

The following is a transcription of the messages from Jeshua and Mary Magdalene for the full moon of April 28, 2010.

This is Richard Presser and Carolyn and I are here to take messages in relation to the full moon of April 28, 2010 which has just passed us by, and Jeshua has come forth first to speak about this event, and he is saying;

This full moon continues the pattern of strengthening and reinforcement of the energies coming to Earth in preparation for the end of 2012. As I have previously said, these energies will continue to intensify as you move closer to that time and this intensification is primarily happening with each of these gateways, these full moons, equinoxes, solstices and so on. They are like steppingstones, you could say as you step up that path leading towards 2012 and then Ascension.

And so this event brought a significant strengthening of these energies and many of humanity will have experienced quite a deal of disruption from these energies. Those who are sensitive to energies will have felt them quite strongly, because they represented quite a step up in power. And the key things that these energies are bringing forth are further awakening of memories, an opening of that door to a much greater degree by which people will begin to remember what they have been in past lives, who and what they have been; and as this occurs, their skills and abilities, those skills and abilities held by their soul will begin to re-emerge.

Also, these energies have significantly eased the effort, you could say of clearing past life negative karma and Carolyn and Richard have begun to witness this in the use of the karmic clearing command. They are required to do less preparation, you could say to ensure that an individual is completely cleared of their past life karma with the use of the command and this trend will continue such that it will not be very long before all healers who are given this command will be able to execute it and clear anyone who experiences the command. We are not yet at that point but it is not far off, and so in a sense it is not yet time for this command to be placed in the hands of others so that it can be readily utilised in this manner; but that time will soon come.

And so these are the key changes that have come forth with these energies - an intensification you could say, of the preparation that is necessary for humanity to be able to step forth as planned. And so it is.

From Carolyn Evers:

And now the beautiful lady, Mary Magdalene wishes to join her beloved and bring forth her thoughts about this full moon energy, and this is what she says;

There are some who wonder about what happens when the moon is full or waning or the point when there is just a sliver in the sky. Some recognize the fact that the moon does indeed affect the Earth and perhaps the most notable sign is the tide. And you know from everyday living that the moon affects the tide, though it's just accepted and not too much is even thought about it. It just is. The moon is a celestial body and it moves through space, your planet moves through space, other planets and stars move through space. Each has an energy of their own and as such, they affect one another.

You see, the Earth being so close to the moon, you accept far easier the fact that it has an influence upon the land. What's harder to imagine and accept is that these celestial visitors, you might say that are so far out in the universe that it takes dynamic telescopes to even be aware that they exist, yet even from that distance they have a dramatic effect upon Earth. And the reason for this is you are looking at something that truly is beyond time and space. It is the effect of time and space that has great consequences on Earth. Beyond that, things are in the NOW, meaning there is potential that exists side by side from the past, present and future and as such, it is interwoven in a much different manner than what you feel here on Earth with time and space.

Therefore the dance between the planets and Earth in particular and the sun is quite different, and that means wherever they are, whatever their place, the tilt of the axis, the changes upon the surface of these planets and the movement of the stars around them has a great effect upon Earth. You feel it as something subtle and what I mean by that is when there is solar outburst on the Sun, you know that this affects Earth because sometimes satellites are affected, your telephones might be affected and if you followed it, you might even agree that your mood changes, the body changes. But take into consideration that every planet in your solar system is in some way affecting your surroundings, and I'm going to just leave this with your surroundings and not the interplay between the other planets, because that might be confusing to you.

Every movement, every placement of every planet has energy, and as these planets go through movements, the energy would appear to be somewhat like a ray. Maybe if you are going to think of this ray, it would be the shape of a pyramid in some fashion; not equal sided pyramids, but different sided pyramids. And as they move, these energies cross over the paths of each other. It is a dance and each time these paths cross over one another, it forms a slightly different tone, if you're going to compare it to music. And if you think of a piano for instance, the dark keys and the white keys, each has its own tone. And as these planets cross over their different fields of energy, each produce a different tone on the scale of melody.

So I call this a dance, and in this dance there are doors that open. It's almost like a clockworks; the doors open to the center of the cosmos. There is always energy coming from the center of the cosmos and it always reaches Earth, except sometimes it comes in a very indirect manner. It's almost like you take a trip. You're going from point A to point B. From point A to point B, there might be a very direct route like a straight line, and then sometimes there might be obstacles in the way so to get from point A to point B, you have to take a very indirect route. And most of the time, that is how the energy comes from the center of the cosmos to your planet Earth and in particular how it affects your physical body and how it affects events in your world. Very seldom does the energy come in a direct line from point A to point B. Most of the times it comes to the Earth in a very convoluted manner, where it takes many side trips, so to speak before it gets there and when that happens the energy is very much diluted in its intensity.

It is like these rays have a certain amount of energy in them, and the more convoluted the route, the more energy is dispersed before it gets to your planet. It is always peace and love and cooperation that comes from the center of the cosmos; always. And when it is a direct route getting from point A to point B, that love, peace, cooperation can be brought to Earth in its fullest extent. And that, my dear friends is what all of this is about. Yes it's energy. Some of it is coming in a more direct route than others, but the energy will be at its most direct route in 2012; and that is what all of this is building up to.

Yes, I'm not going to get into the specifics this time, but we will develop this theme more as I think it's very important for you to understand what really is "2012". There are many threads to this, and my beloved has spoken of these threads in many different ways, but if you're going to simplify this and get down to what you say is the nitty gritty, what it really is, is this direct alignment from point A to point B, where Source, your Creator, of you and everything else, will have a direct alignment to your soul, where it brings in the fullness of love and peace and cooperation and all that that entails.

And from now to then, there will be these little dances where, you might say this energy is reflected or refracted, so that this month there'll be a little bit more coming in, bringing in different objectives than other months. But remember what I say; all of this is in preparation for the greatest event that will ever happen upon your planet and during that event, many other things will be happening that will act like a light shining upon that moment, when all will feel the full strength, the full abilities, the full understanding, the full knowledge of truly what peace and love and cooperation means as it is played out upon your beautiful planet.

It has never happened before, dear friends. All of those gifts have never had the opportunity to be fully played out on your planet, and it just so happens that at that moment or shall I say not far after, the souls will ascend. They will find that next higher dimension as they move closer to the Source in the center of the cosmos; and this, my friends is perhaps the greatest story ever told.

And this is your dear friend Miriam, who will bring forth more of this information as my beloved explains the current energies for the current full moon.
